Since a couple of years ago there's a new law inside the European Union that makes a company that is sending packages made of paper or plastic to other EU countries responsible to pay for the handling/recycling of this packing material in the country it is sent to.

Each country must be applied for and paid to individually per year, and since we're a small business, we would make "minus business" in each EU country, because of the fees that ranges from high to insane.

So, until the EU come up with a plan on solving this issue, this is sadly how it is.

No one is more disappointed than us.

We have lost 50% of our market.

But since we are with Shopify, and it's easy for a *3rd party to see what we sold and sent where,
and with the fines being many thousands of euros per country, we go with better safe than sorry!
